They have little in common except their biology, and struggle to live together. Briarris is determined to change that--to evict Ghen from their joint city-state into the wild forests beyond. After all, the Ghen spend much of their time there already, hunting and exploring. But when Briarris learns the terrible secret at the heart of their civilization, everything changes. With the help of a handful of Bria and Ghen, Briarris fights to save their civilization from the dark secret within and the terrible predator that hungers just outside their walls.
